

Retirement greeting

Dear Sir;

At the end of March this year, I have retired the professor position of Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences, School of Science, the University of Tokyo. During 27 years since I moved to the U-Tokyo from a private company, I have been able to manage my laboratory and conduct various researches with the support of many people. I am grateful to your help.

From now on, I will continue working as an appointed researcher at my current workplace, and I will also visit several research institutes in Japan as a visiting researcher, studying fine minerals and earth surface materials mainly using electron microscopes. I would look forward to your continued kindness in the future. Last but not least, I wish you all the best in your health and happiness.

Very truly yours

March 31, 2023 Toshihiro Kogure

Work place from April: 7-3-1 Hongo, Bunkyo-ku, 113-0033,
Japan Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences, School of Science, University of Tokyo Yoshio Takahashi Laboratory
Email: kogure@eps.s.u-tokyo.ac.jp

